

TEQUILAS

BLANCOS

Direct from the still, Blanco or Plata (white or silver) tequilas are fresh and true to the nose and taste of the agave plant. This is tequila in its most pure and simple state, and therefore the best category to select from in the blending of a margarita.

REPOSADOS

Reposado means rested. These tequilas have been aged from two months to up to a year in oak casks which impart to Reposados their mellowed taste, pleasing bouquet, and pale color.

ANEJOS

Anejo tequilas are aged in wooden barrels for a minimum of one year and sometimes as long as five. The influence of the oak is more pronounced than in Reposados. Anejos may become quite dark and woody and develop their unique bouquet and taste, in part, from the oxidation which occurs over time through the porous wood.

TEQUILA FLIGHTS

INTRODUCTION TO TEQUILA 12

This flight gives you the opportunity to compare the three different styles of tequila: a young Blanco, a mellowed Reposado and an aged Anejo.

Leyenda del Milagro

Corralejo Reposado • Siembra Azul Anejo

DIRECT TO BOTTLE vs. SUAVE 18

In this flight, an attempt to determine the true essence of the agave plant, you are treated to four different Blancos: two tequilas that are bottled right after distillation and two Suaves that are given around a month to idle in oak.

LIQUID SMOKE 14

Recommended for a lover of the distinctively peaty single malt scotches of Islay, this flight puts forward three tequilas that harken back to the assertive smoky flavors of tequila's mezcal forebears. Not for the weak of heart!

ONE PRODUCER, THREE TEQUILAS

These vertical flights allow you to experience all three styles of tequila: Blanco, Reposado, Anejo through the eyes and technique of a single producer.

REBS vs. FROGS 20

This flight consists of four of the finest sipping tequilas whose amber color and rich, woody flavors are attributed to their time spent in oak barrels. But whose oak? The first two anejos have matured in bourbon barrels from Kentucky while the third relaxed in white French oak. The fourth, a Reposado, derives its distinct rose color from a three month stretch in French oak barrels which formerly housed vintage Bordeaux.

HIGHLAND vs. LOWLAND 18

Terroir in Jalisco? This flight of four Reposados compares tequilas from the Los Altos region, described as having "fruitier" characteristics, with those of the Lowlands, known generally for earthier flavors.

Cazadores • Don Julio

Sauza Hornitos • Cabo Wabo

INTRODUCTION TO MEZCAL 20

Terroir in Oaxaca? This flight compares three mezcals from villages with different climates and growing conditions: the narrow, hot valley of San Luis del Rio; the tropical, Hawaii-like environs of Santo Domingo Albarradas; and the broad valley of both desert and semi-tropics, Chichicapa.

PREMIUM TEQUILAS AND SUPER ANEJOS

Best to be sipped and savored, premium tequilas represent the ultimate expression of the spirit of the agave plant and the craft of the tequilero who tames it.
